

DIPLOMAS FOR NURSE GRADUATES TONIGHT

Graduating exercises for Tulsa hospital will be held at 8 o'clock at First Methodist Church.

SENATOR DAVIDSON SPEAKS

Principal Address in Class Will Be Delivered by A. F. Moss—Seven to Receive Diplomas.

Graduating exercises of the training school nurses of the Tulsa hospital will be held in the First Methodist church at 8 o'clock tonight when eight nurses will receive diplomas.

The commencement exercises are under the supervision of Miss Audrey Abbott, head nurse, assisted by four members of the committee on an inspection.

The church will be decorated in the class colors and flowers. The nurses in the graduating class will be dressed in white uniforms and the other members of the hospital staff will wear blue and white uniforms.

Under the direction of Miss Abbott the marching class will march in front of the church promptly at 8 o'clock followed in order by the juniors, sophomore and freshmen.

An address to all members of the staff will be delivered by Senator L. Davidson on "Progress." Hopes, plans, founded by the address to the graduating class by A. F. Moss.

Following the address to the class the diplomas will be presented by Dr. C. Z. Wiley assisted by Mrs. Abbott. The members of the class are: Misses Ethelma Boyce, Tracey, Anna Gred, Addie Saphronia White, Thelma Grace, Newton, Margaret Mary, Seaman, Dora Kathryn Krueger, Ruth Isabelle Houster and Ethel Lincoln.

The following program will be rendered:

Ogan prelude, "Prologue."

Rogers Invocation, Rev. J. W. Abel.

Solo (selected), Leslie Yarbrough.

Address, "Progress of Hospitals," Senator L. Davidson.

Address to graduating class, Hon. A. F. Moss.

Solo with violin obligato, "Through Frances," Jones, Mrs. J. R. Hartley, contralto, Mrs. G. Garabedian, violin.

Presentation of diplomas, Dr. C. Z. Wiley, assisted by Miss Audrey Abbott.

Ogan, "In Springtime" (Kinder).

Mrs. Hines.

Showing at the Palace This Week

Katherine MacDonald and Milton Sills in
"THE WOMAN THOU GAVEST ME"
Paramount-Acosta Special

This picture is breaking all attendance records at the Palace theater. We suggest that you come to the matines or the show beginning at 7 p.m. to be sure of a seat.

It Was Great Night for Tulsa Rotarians and Their Wives at Annual Feast at Country Club

The Rotarians' ladies' night, June 3, 1919.

Will it ever be forgotten by those who were so fortunate as to be present in the Country club on this occasion?

The Tulsa Rotary club was a genial host to the ladies in the families of all Rotarians last evening and this statement means much. The motto of this great bunch of good fellows whose hearts beat true to the great pulse of the universe is, "He Profits Most Who Severs Best" and "Service, Not Self." And it was real service they gave last night in the way of royal entertainment just such a mingling of big hearted souls that made everyone happy. At 7 o'clock the company assembled for dinner in the spacious hall which had been arranged for the invited guests. It was a choice dinner with all the trimmings.

The sign was out to eat and enjoy yourself and if you want to taste the chicken it is fine, why that's the no and it went. There was no formality in any way, introductions were cast to the winds and if you wanted to speak to your neighbor, as in other men and their wives were forced to do. Mr. Farmer, a bachelor for some time in Tulsa and a popular Rotarian was in the spotlight all the evening, even the setting sun cast its glow his way through a western window and made food for comment and laughter. During this time Mrs. Farmer was ably cared for by two gentlemanly waiters from "Some Lodging."

The great feast table was adorned with flower baskets filled with pink and white carnations, roses and blue hydrangeas with delicate form.

Terminated, and the high handles were tied with pink ribbon.

The favors for the ladies were long stemmed roses and cigars and cigarettes for the men. During the dinner Ed Sopf and his cadre of assistants passed fun favors and these proved to be Mephisto caps, Indian headdress, Pierrot and Pierrot hats and everything in such a potpourri in attire with the moment they were worn throughout the evening.

Present for Dinner.

At the close of the dinner W. F. Stahl said he would like to announce that the conduct of the Rotarians on this occasion was the way they behaved at all times and he had no apologies to make for them. In a neat speech, he could not grow eloquent for the round-making crowd that would not allow him to proceed. Al G. Heggen, the president with a watch.

The president accepted the gift with much grace and when called on for a speech said, "Don't know how to thank you fellows for this, I want to say though, the last year has been a grand one. It has been great to have a crowd with you like this one. I guess you gave me this watch though because it was a good sign that my time is out." He announced to the assembly that he was much pleased to know about members had thought of the nomination having given evidence of the confidence in admitting Oklahoma are purely technical and can be remedied easily before the next conference meeting in December.

The conference denied membership to Oklahoma on the ground that athletes here are not controlled by the faculty. At the present time the athletic council is composed of three faculty members appointed by the president of the university, one faculty member elected by the students, an alumnus not appointed by the president and four students. As a matter of fact five of the nine council members are now ex-faculty members. The constitution will be amended when so that the president will also appoint five faculty members to the council.

He appeared in the gallery, but was never able to say a word, for some one or more of his fellow Rotarians kidnapped him.

While Upp, the other popular candidate was serving beer. A funny thing happened just about the time for the massive program to begin. Mr. Sopf endeavored to introduce the new gallant manner, the ladies of the invited, he appeared in the gallery, but was never able to say a word, for some one or more of his fellow Rotarians kidnapped him.

That was a surprise enough, but that they were really kidnapped on this occasion. In Bert Gibbons was asked why he did not be indomitable and pass samples of Hotatrag and he said there were no flies on the Rotarians.

Present for Dinner.

Increased rates only can meet rail expense.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Only increased rates on the government-controlled railroads meet operating expenses, Director General Hinckley of the railroad administration told Congress yesterday, despite the fact that the cost of railroad employees had been increased 25 to 30 per cent during the government control; they now were only "reasonable and fair," he added.

He said the increase in pay during the year had been 10 per cent.

Mr. Hinckley, who appeared to ask for $1,000,000 additional for the railroad administration, continuing fund for the remainder of this calendar year, declared that while wages of railroad employees had been increased 25 to 30 per cent during the government control, they now were only "reasonable and fair," he added.

He said the increase in pay during the year had been 10 per cent.

Mr. Hinckley, who appeared to ask for $1,000,000 additional for the railroad administration, continuing fund for the remainder of this calendar year, declared that while wages of railroad employees had been increased 25 to 30 per cent during the government control, they now were only "reasonable and fair," he added.

He said the increase in pay during the year had been 10 per cent.

Mr. Hinckley, who appeared to ask for $1,000,000 additional for the railroad administration, continuing fund for the remainder of this calendar year, declared that while wages of railroad employees had been increased 25 to 30 per cent during the government control, they now were only "reasonable and fair," he added.

He said the increase in pay during the year had been 10 per cent.

Mr. Hinckley, who appeared to ask for $1,000,000 additional for the railroad administration, continuing fund for the remainder of this calendar year, declared that while wages of railroad employees had been increased 25 to 30 per cent during the government control, they now were only "reasonable and fair," he added.

He said the increase in pay during the year had been 10 per cent.

Mr. Hinckley, who appeared to ask for $1,000,000 additional for the railroad administration, continuing fund for the remainder of this calendar year, declared that while wages of railroad employees had been increased 25 to 30 per cent during the government control, they now were only "reasonable and fair," he added.

He said the increase in pay during the year had been 10 per cent.

Mr. Hinckley, who appeared to ask for $1,000,000 additional for the railroad administration, continuing fund for the remainder of this calendar year, declared that while wages of railroad employees had been increased 25 to 30 per cent during the government control, they now were only "reasonable and fair," he added.

He said the increase in pay during the year had been 10 per cent.

Mr. Hinckley, who appeared to ask for $1,000,000 additional for the railroad administration, continuing fund for the remainder of this calendar year, declared that while wages of railroad employees had been increased 25 to 30 per cent during the government control, they now were only "reasonable and fair," he added.

He said the increase in pay during the year had been 10 per cent.

Mr. Hinckley, who appeared to ask for $1,000,000 additional for the railroad administration, continuing fund for the remainder of this calendar year, declared that while wages of railroad employees had been increased 25 to 30 per cent during the government control, they now were only "reasonable and fair," he added.

He said the increase in pay during the year had been 10 per cent.

Mr. Hinckley, who appeared to ask for $1,000,000 additional for the railroad administration, continuing fund for the remainder of this calendar year, declared that while wages of railroad employees had been increased 25 to 30 per cent during the government control, they now were only "reasonable and fair," he added.

He said the increase in pay during the year had been 10 per cent.

Mr. Hinckley, who appeared to ask for $1,000,000 additional for the railroad administration, continuing fund for the remainder of this calendar year, declared that while wages of railroad employees had been increased 25 to 30 per cent during the government control, they now were only "reasonable and fair," he added.

He said the increase in pay during the year had been 10 per cent.

Mr. Hinckley, who appeared to ask for $1,000,000 additional for the railroad administration, continuing fund for the remainder of this calendar year, declared that while wages of railroad employees had been increased 25 to 30 per cent during the government control, they now were only "reasonable and fair," he added.

He said the increase in pay during the year had been 10 per cent.

Mr. Hinckley, who appeared to ask for $1,000,000 additional for the railroad administration, continuing fund for the remainder of this calendar year, declared that while wages of railroad employees had been increased 25 to 30 per cent during the government control, they now were only "reasonable and fair," he added.

He said the increase in pay during the year had been 10 per cent.

Mr. Hinckley, who appeared to ask for $1,000,000 additional for the railroad administration, continuing fund for the remainder of this calendar year, declared that while wages of railroad employees had been increased 25 to 30 per cent during the government control, they now were only "reasonable and fair," he added.

He said the increase in pay during the year had been 10 per cent.

Mr. Hinckley, who appeared to ask for $1,000,000 additional for the railroad administration, continuing fund for the remainder of this calendar year, declared that while wages of railroad employees had been increased 25 to 30 per cent during the government control, they now were only "reasonable and fair," he added.

He said the increase in pay during the year had been 10 per cent.

Mr. Hinckley, who appeared to ask for $1,000,000 additional for the railroad administration, continuing fund for the remainder of this calendar year, declared that while wages of railroad employees had been increased 25 to 30 per cent during the government control, they now were only "reasonable and fair," he added.

He said the increase in pay during the year had been 10 per cent.

Mr. Hinckley, who appeared to ask for $1,000,000 additional for the railroad administration, continuing fund for the remainder of this calendar year, declared that while wages of railroad employees had been increased 25 to 30 per cent during the government control, they now were only "reasonable and fair," he added.

He said the increase in pay during the year had been 10 per cent.

Mr. Hinckley, who appeared to ask for $1,000,000 additional for the railroad administration, continuing fund for the remainder of this calendar year, declared that while wages of railroad employees had been increased 25 to 30 per cent during the government control, they now were only "reasonable and fair," he added.

He said the increase in pay during the year had been 10 per cent.

Mr. Hinckley, who appeared to ask for $1,000,000 additional for the railroad administration, continuing fund for the remainder of this calendar year, declared that while wages of railroad employees had been increased 25 to 30 per cent during the government control, they now were only "reasonable and fair," he added.

He said the increase in pay during the year had been 10 per cent.

Mr. Hinckley, who appeared to ask for $1,000,000 additional for the railroad administration, continuing fund for the remainder of this calendar year, declared that while wages of railroad employees had been increased 25 to 30 per cent during the government control, they now were only "reasonable and fair," he added.

He said the increase in pay during the year had been 10 per cent.

Mr. Hinckley, who appeared to ask for $1,000,000 additional for the railroad administration, continuing fund for the remainder of this calendar year, declared that while wages of railroad employees had been increased 25 to 30 per cent during the government control, they now were only "reasonable and fair," he added.

He said the increase in pay during the year had been 10 per cent.

Mr. Hinckley, who appeared to ask for $1,000,000 additional for the railroad administration, continuing fund for the remainder of this calendar year, declared that while wages of railroad employees had been increased 25 to 30 per cent during the government control, they now were only "reasonable and fair," he added.

He said the increase in pay during the year had been 10 per cent.

Mr. Hinckley, who appeared to ask for $1,000,000 additional for the railroad administration, continuing fund for the remainder of this calendar year, declared that while wages of railroad employees had been increased 25 to 30 per cent during the government control, they now were only "reasonable and fair," he added.

He said the increase in pay during the year had been 10 per cent.

Mr. Hinckley, who appeared to ask for $1,000,000 additional for the railroad administration, continuing fund for the remainder of this calendar year, declared that while wages of railroad employees had been increased 25 to 30 per cent during the government control, they now were only "reasonable and fair," he added.

He said the increase in pay during the year had been 10 per cent.

Mr. Hinckley, who appeared to ask for $1,000,000 additional for the railroad administration, continuing fund for the remainder of this calendar year, declared that while wages of railroad employees had been increased 25 to 30 per cent during the government control, they now were only "reasonable and fair," he added.

He said the increase in pay during the year had been 10 per cent.

Mr. Hinckley, who appeared to ask for $1,000,000 additional for the railroad administration, continuing fund for the remainder of this calendar year, declared that while wages of railroad employees had been increased 25 to 30 per cent during the government control, they now were only "reasonable and fair," he added.

He said the increase in pay during the year had been 10 per cent.

Mr. Hinckley, who appeared to ask for $1,000,000 additional for the railroad administration, continuing fund for the remainder of this calendar year, declared that while wages of railroad employees had been increased 25 to 30 per cent during the government control, they now were only "reasonable and fair," he added.

He said the increase in pay during the year had been 10 per cent.

Mr. Hinckley, who appeared to ask for $1,000,000 additional for the railroad administration, continuing fund for the remainder of this calendar year, declared that while wages of railroad employees had been increased 25 to 30 per cent during the government control, they now were only "reasonable and fair," he added.

He said the increase in pay during the year had been 10 per cent.

Mr. Hinckley, who appeared to ask for $1,000,000 additional for the railroad administration, continuing fund for the remainder of this calendar year, declared that while wages of railroad employees had been increased 25 to 30 per cent during the government control, they now were only "reasonable and fair," he added.

He said the increase in pay during the year had been 10 per cent.

Mr. Hinckley, who appeared to ask for $1,000,000 additional for the railroad administration, continuing fund for the remainder of this calendar year, declared that while wages of railroad employees had been increased 25 to 30 per cent during the government control, they now were only "reasonable and fair," he added.

He said the increase in pay during the year had been 10 per cent.

Mr. Hinckley, who appeared to ask for $1,000,000 additional for the railroad administration, continuing fund for the remainder of this calendar year, declared that while wages of railroad employees had been increased 25 to 30 per cent during the government control, they now were only "reasonable and fair," he added.

He said the increase in pay during the year had been